IBERO-AMERICAN CINEMA
CINE IBEROAMERICANO
BERLINALE 2016

Por segundo año consecutivo, el Instituto Cervantes y el Instituto Ibero-American en Berlín colaboramos en la publicación de este folleto que presenta las más de 30 películas iberoamericanas incluidas en las diferentes secciones de la 66 Berlinale. Asimismo organizamos una mesa redonda que tratará nuevas formas de difusión del cine iberoamericano.

Deseamos contribuir, de esta manera, a mejorar el conocimiento y fortalecer la visibilidad del cine producido en ambas orillas del Atlántico. Una región cultural inmensa, diversa y creativa, en la que se está consolidando una potente industria cinematográfica, que puja por llegar a un público más amplio.

El talento, la capacidad para optimizar recursos, el incremento de las coproducciones y la búsqueda constante de nuevos lenguajes y temáticas han alumbrado un cine de historias cotidianas, que son reflejo de la política, la cultura y la sociedad locales.

Así pues, sólo nos queda esperar que Berlinale siga siendo ese gran espacio y plataforma de difusión del cine internacional, en el que tenga cada vez mayor presencia nuestro cine distinto, apasionado y sincero que nos cautiva por sus grandes contadores de historias.

Les deseamos un emocionante festival de cine lleno de descubrimientos filmicos.

For the second time, the Instituto Cervantes and the Ibero-American Institute in Berlin have cooperated in publishing a brochure which presents the more than 30 Ibero-American films being shown in the different sections of the 66th Berlinale. Furthermore, we shall be organising a round-table discussion on new ways of promoting and disseminating the Ibero-American cinema.

The aim is to contribute to a better understanding and higher visibility of cinema production on both sides of the Atlantic, showing the great, diverse and creative culture of a region where a strong film industry has been established which now wants to reach out to a broader public.

Based on brilliant talents, resource optimization, an increase of co-productions and a continuous search for new topics and ways of expression, a whole new range of films which recount stories of everyday life and reflect local politics, culture and society have been produced.

So we hope that the Berlinale continues to provide a space and platform for disseminating international cinema and that our cinema, with its distinct, passionate and authentic way of producing films based on great stories will have an even stronger presence.

We wish you an exciting film festival with lots of film discoveries.

Si en la anterior edición celebramos el alto número de películas iberoamericanas en la Berlinale, hoy saludamos el significativo número de proyectos en los diferentes espacios de coproducción, origen de lo que serán las futuras películas. Nos complace constatar el amplio abanico de frescas miradas sobre aspectos de nuestra propia realidad y, lo que es singular, sobre el mundo en su totalidad. Veremos inusuales acercamientos de creadores que en sus primeras obras, acompañan el tránsito de nuestros héroes desde lo arcaico a la moderna ciudad, como en la brasileña "Antes o tempo não acabava" o la salvadoreña "Tempestad". Haremos una inmersión en diversas formas de entender la familia y vivir la sexualidad, como en la chilena "Rara" y la peruana "El soñador". Recorreremos los Andes extremos en la portuguesa "Eldorado XXI" y la íntima convivencia de apasionados cocineros en la catalana "Campo a través. Mugaritz, intuyendo un camino". Desde un sugerente cambio de eje, que impregna todas las obras, nuestros creadores indagan en realidades lejanas como en "Curumim" de mi compatriota Marcos Prado o en la portuguesa "Cartas da guerra" que nos traslada a la doliente África.

En la 66 edición los trazos finos han dado paso a lo iberoamericano en el mundo global.

In the previous edition we were celebrating the high number of Ibero-American films at the Berlinale. Today, we welcome the significant number of projects in different co-production areas, where future films will originate. We are pleased to see the wide range of new perspectives on aspects of our own reality, and, what we find remarkable, also on the world as a whole. We will see unusual approaches by creators who, in their early works, accompany the transition of our heroes from the archaic to the modern city, as in the Brazilian "Antes o tempo não acabava" or the Salvadoran "Tempestad". We will look into different ways of understanding family and experiencing sexuality, like in the Chilean "Rara" and the Peruvian "El soñador". We will go to the ends of the Andes in the Portuguese "Eldorado XXI" and see the intimate coexistence of passionate cooks in the Catalan "Campo a través. Mugaritz, intuyendo un camino". With a thought-provoking change of focus, which pervades all works, our film-makers delve into distant realities such as in my compatriot Marcos Prado's "Curumim" or the Portuguese "Cartas da guerra" that takes us to suffering Africa.

In the 66th edition, we see the fine lines of a particular Ibero-American way of making cinema in the global world.

Es difícil sintetizar en pocas palabras la exuberancia y pluralidad de miradas del cine iberoamericano, características que hacen de cada una de las cinematografías nacionales que lo conforman, un conglomerado de variados contenidos y propuestas estéticas que podrían entusiasmar a todo tipo de público. Sin embargo, sólo una pequeña parte logra traspasar las fronteras nacionales y dar el salto a su distribución internacional. ¿Será esta profusión de representaciones e imágenes la que complica su acceso al mercado? ¿Cómo ocupar las distintas ventanas de exhibición del mundo con un cine emancipado de los rasgos identificables del cine hegemónico?

El debate invita a reflexionar sobre estos temas, además de las posibilidades que ofrecen las plataformas cinematográficas y las nuevas formas de dar visibilidad al fértil cine iberoamericano.

It is difficult to summarise in a few words the exuberance and plurality of views in Ibero-American cinema. This is a characteristic feature of all its national film production which creates a mixture of a huge variety of contents and aesthetic proposals which should be able to attract all kinds of audiences. However, only a small number of these films make it through the national borders and get distributed internationally. Is it this abundance of representations and images what complicates its access to the market? How could an independent cinema which has left behind the identifiable traits of the predominant film industry be brought to the different showcases of the world?

The debate invites you to think about these issues, in addition to the possibilities offered by film platforms and new ways to make the very productive Ibero-American cinema more visible.
